A new server for archived digitised photographs.....

It may come as a surprise to some people; however did you know the National Railway Museum already has more than 150,000 images in its photographic library? We are very pleased to have been donated some very important photographic collections already. Some of those special people include:

Doug Colquhoun
Ron Stewien
Peter Lovell

David Parsons
Barry Marshall
George Bishop

Dean Harvey
Wal Jack
Cliff Olds

Arnold Lockyer
Trevor Triplow
Ron Fluck

There is a genuine desire for a new server, specifically to handle the very much expanding digital archive. The NRM is eager to adequately take care of all photographic collections which have been placed in its care; so after cumulative discussion, a new server with a far greater level of storage space is the best way forward.

The total cost of this new server is around $15,000. We are seeking support from our members and supporters to assist in funding this project, to ensure that our current collections and future collections are properly cared for, and more importantly is easily accessible for research in the future.

Our target is $10,000 - and remember, your donation is tax deductible!

By supporting the NRM in this project, you are helping to provide safety and security for thousands of photographs, many of which are not held in any other archive or by any other organisation.

We would really appreciate your donation to help this very important cause, and encourage you to complete the Donation Form and return it to NRM.
